SYSTEM DESIGN USING TELEGRAM FOR STOCK INFORMATION AND PHONE PRICE IN SAMSUNG PHONE DISTRIBUTOR

Written By
Pinthor Amos
12030049

ABSTRACT

The community has a desire to get ease in performing daily activities due to advances in technological progress. Technological advances aimed at providing the desired ease. The development of computer and mobile technology used to develop Information System applications for various institutions, such as schools or universities. In the information system that used to be felt still availability of information needed and there is more. In this research will be designed software that utilizes one of the existing facilities on the mobile phone that is social media telegram. With the development of technology by using social media and the need for information is higher then the design and manufacture of information applications in the samsung phone distributor telegram applications are expected to provide an alternative way of getting information. media information. Conducting this research produces an application that can be used as information to use messages by telegram